Dear Jack,

I am writing to invite you to attend the campus art festival with me, which will be held from 8:00 a. m to 5:00 p. m next weekend in the art building of our school.

The festival whose theme is to promote traditional Chinese cultures and to expose us to foreign cultures too. Not only will we enjoy varieties of famous works of fine art, but also we can exchange ideas about them. It will surely be an amazing experience. Why not come and join me? I can hardly wait to enjoy it with you.

Looking forward to your early reply.

Best wishes!

Yours sincerely,
Li Hua

第二节 (满分 15 分)

I asked him, "Why did you not tell my roommate that you are my brother?" He replied with a smile, "If so, won't they laugh at you?" I felt so touched, tears filling my eyes. From his pocket, he took out a butterfly hair clip, put it on my hair and said, "This is for you." I couldn't hold back myself anymore. I pulled my brother into my arms and cried. That year, my brother was 20 years old and I was 23. Love and care for the one you love every single day of your life. You may think what you did is just a small deed, but to that person, it may mean a lot.

听力文稿

(Text 1)

W: Excuse me. Can you tell me where the Auto Club is meeting?

M: It was going to meet in Room 105, but was changed to 103, oh, no, 102 for more space.

(Text 2)

M: Becky, would you like to go out to dinner and dance with me tonight?

W: I'd love to, but I promised my friend Lucy I'd visit her tonight.

(Text 3)

W: You can change planes in either Chicago or Denver.

M: You mean there's no direct flight from New York to Phoenix?

(Text 4)

M: Hi, Alice! You look worried. What's the matter?

W: Oh, there's something wrong with my cell phone. It doesn't work.

M: Well, I'm free after school, so if you need any help, just let me know.

(Text 5)

W: Who is that boy wearing glasses, Ben?

M: Oh, that's my brother, Mike.

W: Your brother?

M: Yes, and that's his classmate, Tom, the tall boy with brown hair.

(Text 6)

M: Hi, Maddie. That's a great baseball cap!

W: Thanks, Karl. My Uncle Max brought it for me from the United States.

M: Did he bring your mum one too?

W: She asked him for a T-shirt but he didn't know her size so he got her a box of biscuits. She loves sweet things.

M: What did he bring your dad?

W: You know how much Dad likes cooking. Uncle Max brought him a dish to put rice in.

M: Great! And your grandma?

W: She loves to paint, you know, so Uncle Max brought her some new paints.

M: Perfect!

(Text 7)

W: Honey, will you get home tonight in time to watch That's Incredible?

M: I hope so. That's my favorite program.

W: I'll be watching it too, so if your meeting goes too late, give me a call and I'll record it.

M: Thanks. I may do that. I might have to miss it tonight because my boss is preparing for our business trip to Shanghai tomorrow. So I'll have to stay late to get ready.

W: Oh, I hate traveling like that.

M: It's not that bad.

(Text 8)

W: I think I could spend 90 minutes a week in language exchange.

M: Sounds good. How shall we manage it though?

W: First, we could spend 45 minutes working on your English writing. If you want, I could help you edit your papers. Then for the next 45 minutes you could help me with my Chinese.

M: Would I help you with writing?

W: No. For me right now, the important thing is spoken Chinese. I need practice. We could use my textbook, and you could ask me questions. Then you could correct my mistakes.

M: I think it sounds like a good plan. When would it be convenient for you to meet?

W: Well, today is Monday. Actually, for me Monday at this time would be the best. Is it OK for you?

M: Oh, I have classes all Monday and Tuesday, but I'm free on Wednesday. How about then?

W: OK. See you then.

(Text 9)

W: John, do you have a big family?

M: Er ... it's a medium family. I have two brothers. Both of them are doctors.

W: How about your father? Is he a doctor, too?

M: No, he's a college teacher, with blond hair and glasses like me. I'm about the same height as my father and so is my older brother, but my younger brother is shorter than all of us.

W: How about your mom?

M: She's a librarian. She's the same height as my younger brother, but she has red hair, unlike all the rest of the family! The one thing we all have in common is glasses—all five of us wear glasses.

W: Oh really?

M: Yeah.

W: Is the rest of your family as thin as you are?

M: Well, my mother is skinny, too, but my brothers have a body type more like my dad. They have big muscles, they're very strong and they're much heavier than me.

W: Oh, sounds like a good-looking family.

M: Thank you.

(Text 10)

Hi, Charlie. It's Graham. I'm just calling about going to the cinema tomorrow. The film is on at the Apex Cinema on Tillbury Road. Do you know where it is? I think there's a map on their website. The tickets there are usually £5.70 but ours will only be £4.50 because we're going in the afternoon. I'll bring some extra money as well, so I can get some popcorn. The film starts at four thirty, but let's meet at three o'clock. I want to show you the photos from skating at the weekend. They're really good! So, where shall we meet? I think there's a restaurant on one side of the cinema, but it's quite expensive. I'll wait for you in the café on the other side. We can look at my photos there. Anyway, call me if there's a problem. See you!
